I just met with marketing to review some stuff for my new position with Christ. One the things they're doing is mailing out postcards to a 5 mile radius from the office with my info on it. It's got my picture and info on one side but on the other is a stock image of a white family with a mom, dad, and son. I immediately thought of you and that video they showed us at a practice meeting.. a year ago? Sheesh maybe it's been even longer. And all the white families in the video. So I asked them for alternative options for that picture explaining that not all of my patients fit that profile. Just wanted to let you know that I'm trying to be inclusive in my new practice because even though a 5 mile radius includes Hyde Park, it also includes Norwood, Avondale, Bond Hill, etc. And I want to see a good diversity of patients!

Hope you're having a great Monday :)

Kirsten
